A 38-YEARS-OLD WOMAN WITH HOARSENESS AND CERVICAL LAP

Presenter: Sara Ahmadinejad

Present illness

- The patient is a38 y/o woman without PMH
- Presented with hoarseness and constitutional symptoms and weakness and several cervical lymph adenopathys

Past medical history

- Negative

Family history

- Negative

Drug history:

Negative

Social history:

Negative

Vital Signs and General Appearance

- Temperature, 37/3°C
- Pulse,90 beats per minute and regular
- Blood pressure, 100/70 mm Hg
- Respiratory rate, 16 breaths per minute
- Oxygen saturation, 95% while breathing ambient air
- Conscious no appearance of acute distress

Physical Examination

Head and neck

- Clear conjunctivae
- Anicteric sclera
- Clear pharynx
- Moist mucous membranes
- Normal thyroid,
- several cervical adenopathy

Physical Examination

Chest, heart, and lungs

- Normal and symmetric chest-wall expansion
- Regular heart sounds, with no murmurs, rubs, or gallops
- No wheezes, rales, or rhonchi
- Breath sounds symmetric

Abdomen

- No distention, no striae
- Normal bowel sounds
- Soft and no tender to palpation
- splenomegaly(15-16cm)

Physical Examination

Skin and musculoskeletal system

- Normal

Nervous system

- Alert and oriented to person, place, and time
- Appropriate mood and affect
- No gross motor or sensory deficits
- Normal gait and ambulation

Problems List

- Hoarseness
- Several cervical lap
- Constitutional symptoms
- Weakness
- Splenomegaly

Lab Report

WBC	480000
HB	10
PLT	100,000
UREA	60
Cr	0.7
Na	140
K	4.5

Actions taken

According to clinical and labratory symptoms and PBS visibility:

- The patient was diagnosed with CLL
- Leukapheresis was performed for the patient

Hyperleukocytosis and leukostasis in hematologic malignancies

